Re: Sandra Septimius

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a licensed clinical social worker with credentials in multiple states (License Numbers provided in the header). My professional relationship with Sandra Septimius (DOB: 5/14/73) involves providing healthcare and disability-related services. The information in this letter is based on my personal and professional expertise, which includes advanced clinical training, conducting differential diagnoses, treating diverse populations, and engaging in continuous professional development.

This letter confirms that the individual mentioned has undergone both a written and telehealth assessment to establish eligibility for psychiatric service dog (PSD) under the guidelines of the Fair Housing Act and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The evaluation confirms that the individual's condition meets the criteria of a mental health disability according to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-5). This person's disability significantly impacts one or more major life activities and bodily functions, which may include their ability to concentrate, regulate mood, sleep properly, maintain a healthy body weight, sustain an adequate appetite, nurture positive self-perceptions, engage in previous activities, perform effectively in academic or occupational settings, manage daily tasks, and partake in meaningful social interactions.

To help with this client's specific limitations, I am recommending a psychiatric service dog be a part of their mental health treatment, a dog named Charlie. This PSD is necessary to provide services and therapeutic emotional support that alleviates symptoms of the client's impairment and to enhance the client's ability to function and live independently and fully use and enjoy the dwelling unit you own and/or administer.

This client's psychiatric service dog helps them to feel calm and grounded when experiencing symptoms related to emotional distress, discomfort, nervousness, and anxiety. This client reports that the presence of the animal provides companionship and improves motivation to engage in daily routines, which includes caring for the animal, in addition to being trained to do specific tasks that reduce my clients symptoms.

Please allow my client to live with their PSD as a reasonable accommodation under The Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988.

Please note that pursuant to guidance issued by the U.S. Department of Housing and for privacy reasons, details about the diagnosis or severity of the client's disability and medical records may not be disclosed. They understand that they have the sole responsibility for the PSD, for its behavior, health, training, and cleanliness and the animal and owner must comply with applicable law. The PSD should be fully considered once PSD training can be verified.

For purposes of air travel accommodation, my client will make direct certifications regarding their service dog on the U.S. Department of Transportation's Service Animal Air Transportation Form.

If you have any questions, please contact me at Jennifer@JenniferBronsnick.com for information regarding my recommendation, additional questions or validation requests.

Thank you for accommodating this client's needs.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Bronsnick, MSW, LCSW
